

JUDY BLUME

“We’re supposed to be uncomfortable when we read something. That’s how we learn.”

Judy Blume (1938–), an author of fiction for children, young adults, and adults and activist against book banning.

JewishAmericanHeritage.org

Powered by:

WEITZMAN NATIONAL MUSEUM OF
AMERICAN JEWISH HISTORY
A Smithsonian Institution Affiliate

©2025

PROUDLY FUNDED BY
UJA Federation
NEW YORK

Headshot by Carl Lender,
Flickr.com/photos/clender/,
licensed under CC 2.0